⁴ Target Return is RBA Cash Rate + 3.25% p.a. (net of fees) through the economic cycle. This is a target only and may not be achieved.

Portfolio update

March saw financial markets extend their rally as recession fears subsided, market participants continued to price in imminent monetary policy easing and corporate earnings showed resilience. The recent rally has been supported by falling bond yields and – during March – domestic long term bond yields rallied slightly. PCI's floating rate structure mitigates the impact of month-to-month interest rate volatility and will continue to be crucial as long as there remains uncertainty around the path of monetary policy.

Credit spreads continued to tighten, consolidating on their strong start to the year. This contributed to performance across non-financial corporates, domestic financial and securitise sectors. PCI's foreign denominated financial exposures continued to perform well with USD denominated Australian bank bonds contributed substantially to performance. All foreign currency exposures held in PCI are hedged back to Australian Dollars.

Consistent with previous months, running income was the most substantial contributor to performance with PCI collecting a healthy income premium above the RBA Cash Rate. Income return continues to be driven by allocations to non-financial corporates with contributions from financials and securitised sectors. At month end, the Trust's running income was 8.0%.

Sector allocations were marginally adjusted during March. We trimmed domestic bank exposures and selectively reduced allocation to hybrids. PCI's non-financial sector exposure was increased over the month and we took part in a new senior unsecured fixed rate bond from Aurizon, hedging back to floating rate.

Our proprietary credit outlook score improved from neutral to positive in the first week of April following upgrades to valuation and macroeconomic indicators. We continue to be focussed on our active risk investment process by being selective in new investments and taking advantage of relative value opportunities as they arise.
