MARKET COMMENTARY

Financial markets softened in October with equity markets and bond yields weakening globally. A key driver was the firming expectations of a second Trump presidency and the anticipation of inflationary policies including tax cuts and restrictive tariffs on foreign imports. While resurgent inflationary pressure would contribute to higher-for-longer rates, reduced regulations and corporate taxes would be expected to benefit US equities.

Domestic bond yields rose sharply during October, with the 10-year government bond yield rising 53bps to 4.51% by month end. This was in line with US 10-year bonds which also rose by 50bps. Alongside US inflationary policy concerns, robust US jobs and GDP data eased pressure on the Federal reserve to continue lowering rates. Domestically, inflation continues to ease with third quarter year-on-year inflation reaching a three year low, led by falling oil prices. The domestic yield curve flattened during the month as 2-5 year yields rose more sharply than long term tenors.

Floating rate credit performed well in a month where equities and bonds weakened. Domestic credit spreads tightened as investors moved to take advantage of elevated base rates by rotating into corporate and financial credit. Credit spread tightening was widespread with utilities, non-financial corporates and financial spreads narrowing. Swap spreads contracted during October as bond yields sold off.

Primary markets were orderly during October. Issuance was headlined by NAB's $2.75B 3-year senior unsecured deal. Tier 2 regional bank issuance met elevated demand with a smaller deals from Judo Bank ($125M) and Bank of Queensland ($250M) attracting substantial investor interest in excess of 8 times the book size. Securitisation volumes remain elevated with almost $10B of new deals in October, continuing the already record breaking 2024 pace.

PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

The Fund's yield premium above the RBA cash rate remains a key contributing factor to outperformance. Non-financial corporates, RMBS alongside domestic and offshore banks are the most substantial contributor to income return. At month end, the Fund's running yield was 6.7% with the average spread measured at 2.5%.

Credit spread dynamics contributed strongly to outperformance as floating rate credit performed well during a month where equities and bonds sold off. The Fund's allocation to domestic banks was the most substantial contributing sector to credit spread return during the month. Tightening spreads among Real estate Investment trust and securitised sectors were also constructive.

Swap spread contraction contributed slightly to outperformance over the month. The Fund hedges fixed rate exposures via short government bond futures and retains a small sensitivity to swap spreads. Swap spreads tightened further as bond yields sold off, contributing marginally to return.

The Fund's sector allocations were adjusted during the month, increasing exposure to non-bank financial and offshore banks while reducing allocation to non-financial corporates and domestic banks.

The portfolio is defensively positioned and retains the capacity to take advantage of relative value opportunities as they arise.

OUTLOOK

The credit outlook improved during October despite remaining in negative territory throughout the month.

Valuation indicators are marginally negative. While credit spreads are at neutral levels, recent AUD swap spread contraction continues to detract while a recent spate of opportunistic deals from both domestic and kangaroo issuers is reflected in the negative valuation score.

The growth outlook remains neutral. The ratio of upgrades to downgrades remains supportive however the macroeconomic growth indicators remain challenged.

Supply and demand indicators have improved, ending the month marginally negative. The pipeline of upcoming maturities has improved marginally. Elevated recent issuance volumes continue to weigh on the outlook although this is partially offset by strong investor demand.

Technical indicators have improved to end the month in marginally positive territory. Intermediary positioning remains positive with elevated cash levels expected to contribute to demand. US credit spreads and equity markets are positively contributing while equity market volatility is detracting slightly from the overall outlook.
